The Premier has decided that being married would be good for his image. He asks his stenographer for advice: (Premier) Good. Just jot me down a precis of the points made by your fifteen admirers when proposing - the points that specially appealed to you. (Stenographer) I'm afraid, sir, that what most appealed to me could not be expressed in words. In fact, it wasn't words. But no, sir. The subject is too sacred.... (Premier)...But you could tell me how they began. The opening address, eh? How did they lead up? (Stenographer) Most of 'em just kissed me, sir. It seemed to give them confidence. (Premier) But I couldn't possibly start like that. (Stenographer) It's always done sir.... - Summary by ToddHW

Read by Beth Thomas; ToddHW; alanmapstone; Son of the Exiles; Sonia; Leanne Yau; Tomas Peter; Devorah Allen; TJ Burns; Peter Musgrove; Sandra Schmit; MajorToast . Total running time: 2:40:28

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.
Cover picture from “Punch” 1916. Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU. and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by Annise This design is in the public domain.